

Electro-hydraulic cable tray price

AI Overview

Industrial cable trays typically range from $20 to $150 per 2.4-meter section, depending on material, type, and load capacity. General Pricing Overview Standard cable trays, such as hot-dip galvanized ladder trays, are priced based on a 2.4-meter length, with prices generally starting around $20-$50 per section for basic galvanized steel models and increasing for stainless steel or aluminum options. Wire mesh or ventilated trays may cost slightly more due to flexibility and corrosion resistance. Fittings, such as bends, tees, and reducers, are priced per piece, typically ranging from $5 to $30 each, depending on size and material. Factors Affecting Price Material: Stainless steel and aluminum trays are more expensive than galvanized steel due to durability and corrosion resistance. Type: Ladder trays, solid-bottom trays, and wire mesh trays vary in cost; ladder trays are ideal for heavy power cables, while wire mesh trays are lighter and easier to install. Load Capacity: Trays designed for heavier cables or industrial applications cost more. Certifications and Standards: CE-certified or DIN EN 61537-compliant trays may carry a premium. Electro-Hydraulic Features: If the tray includes motorized or automated cable handling, prices can increase significantly due to the integration of hydraulic or electromechanical components. These specialized systems often require custom quotes from suppliers. Recommendations For electro-hydraulic cable trays, it is best to contact suppliers directly, such as Bahra Electric, Ekabel24, or Alibaba vendors, to obtain a custom quote based on your project's specifications, including tray length, material, load, and automation features. By considering these factors, you can estimate a base price for standard trays and anticipate additional costs for electro-hydraulic enhancements.
