

Nigerian Steel Cable Management System Factory

AI Overview

Kabelmetal Nigeria Plc and Fairtex Group are leading providers of cable and cable management systems in Nigeria, serving industrial, commercial, and infrastructure sectors. Kabelmetal Nigeria Plc is the largest manufacturer of power and instrumentation cables in West Africa, founded in 1966 by Kabelmetal, Hannover, Germany, and now a subsidiary of Nexans S.A, Paris . The company specializes in low voltage power, instrumentation, control, and power distribution cables, as well as several specialty cables for industries such as oil and gas, manufacturing, and construction . Kabelmetal has a strong reputation for quality, holding ISO 9000 certification, Nigerian Industrial Standards (NIS) awards, and certifications from Lloyd's Register and Bureau Veritas for shipboard cables . Their facilities in Ikeja, Lagos, are equipped for large-scale cable production and custom solutions . Fairtex Group provides complete cable management solutions, including cable trays, baskets, and support systems for various sectors such as oil and gas, mining, infrastructure, renewables, and commercial markets . Their factory is fully equipped with engineering design, production, and quality control departments, ensuring that products meet load, deflection, and installation requirements. Fairtex emphasizes minimizing welding in their systems and uses modern manufacturing technology to maintain consistent quality . Other Notable Manufacturers Cutix PLC is another established Nigerian cable manufacturer with over 42 years of experience, producing industrial and energy distribution cables that meet international standards . While primarily focused on cables rather than full cable management systems, they are a key player in the Nigerian cable industry. Summary For steel cable management systems in Nigeria, Fairtex Group is...
