

Price of Fireproof Sealed Cable Trays

AI Overview

Fireproof cable trays typically range from $0.32 to $12 per unit, depending on material, size, and fire rating. Overview of Pricing Fireproof cable trays vary widely in price based on material, fire resistance, and application requirements. Common materials include carbon steel (galvanized or powder-coated), stainless steel, aluminum, and fiberglass-reinforced plastic (FRP), each offering different durability, corrosion resistance, and heat tolerance. Low-end options: Basic FRP or PVC trays can start as low as $0.32 per unit, suitable for smaller installations or less demanding environments. Mid-range options: Hot-dip galvanized steel or aluminum trays typically cost $2–$6 per unit, offering better strength, corrosion resistance, and moderate fire protection. High-end options: Stainless steel or specialized composite trays designed for industrial, petrochemical, or offshore applications can reach $10–$12 per unit or more, reflecting superior fire resistance, chemical resistance, and long-term durability. Factors Affecting Price Material: Steel offers high heat resistance (up to 1,000°C), aluminum is lightweight, and FRP is corrosion-resistant. Fire Rating: Trays with 1–2 hour fire ratings or compliance with UL, DIN, or IEC standards are more expensive. Size and Load Capacity: Larger trays or those designed to support heavy cable loads increase cost. Installation and Customization: Pre-perforated, anodized, or custom-length trays may add to the price. Bulk orders often reduce per-unit cost, with minimum order quantities ranging from 10 units to 500–1,000 meters for industrial projects. Practical Considerations When selecting fireproof cable trays, consider total lifecycle cost, including installation, maintenance, and expected lifespan. While stainless steel or high-grade composites have higher upfront costs, they often provide better long-term value in corrosive or high-temperature environments. Compliance with local fire safety codes (e.g., NFPA 70, IEC 61537) is essential to ensure safety and regulatory adherence. In summary, fireproof cable tr...
