

Warranty on SFP optical module 100G

AI Overview

Cisco 100G SFP and QSFP modules are covered by a 5-year limited hardware warranty, while other vendors offer varying warranty terms and quality assurances. Cisco Warranty Cisco provides a 5-year limited hardware warranty for its pluggable modules, including SFPFE, SFPOCX, SFPGE, SFP10G, X2, SFP25G, QSFP40G, QSFP100, and QDD400G product families, effective from September 7, 2020. This warranty covers defects in materials and workmanship under normal use. Products purchased before this date are covered under the warranty terms in effect at the time of purchase, which were typically 1-year or 90-day limited warranties depending on the module type. Detailed warranty terms, including replacement procedures and limitations, are available on Cisco's warranty documentation pages.

Other Vendors

Juniper Networks: While specific warranty durations are not explicitly stated, Juniper emphasizes rigorous system and module-level testing, compliance with industry standards, and full technical support through the Juniper Technical Assistance Center, ensuring reliability and interoperability in multivendor environments.

FS (Fiberstore): FS offers 100G QSFP28 modules with a 30-day free return policy, indicating a short-term satisfaction guarantee, while long-term warranty details may vary by product and region.

Sanoc: Sanoc's 100G QSFP28 transceivers are precision-engineered and rigorously tested for high-density, mission-critical environments. While the exact warranty period is not specified, the emphasis on quality testing, compatibility with major networking brands, and reliability in commercial and industrial temperature ranges suggests strong post-purchase support.

NEC: NEC's 100G SFP112 modules focus on compact, high-performance design and interoperability with existing SFP+ and QSFP28 modules. Warranty specifics are not detailed in the product description, but NEC typically provides standard manufacturer warranties for optical transceivers.
